

Indiana Roundtables on Post-Communism “Islam and Post-Communism” March 27-28, 2008

Panelists:

Zaindi Choltaev, Chechen Political Activist

Kristen Ghodsee, Bowdoin College

Edmund Waite, University of London

Public Roundtable: Thursday March 27, 2008

1:00PM - 4:00PM

IMU Dogwood Room

Chair: Gardner Bovington, IU Central Eurasian Studies

Discussants: Nazif Shahrani (IU Anthropology), Abdulkader Sinno (IU Political Science), and Kevin Jaques (IU Religious Studies).

Responses by the panelists

Questions and comments from the floor

Follow-up faculty-grad student seminar: Friday March 28, 2008

10:00AM – 12:00PM

IMU Dogwood Room

The first session of the roundtable will take place on Thursday afternoon and is open to the public. A follow-up working session will occur on Friday for faculty and graduate students. The roundtable focuses on a brief “provocation” statement and set of questions sent in advance to the roundtable panelists. Each panelist has prepared a 1000-word statement in response to the “provocation” and questions. The provocation statement, questions, and responses by each panelist are available on the following web page, and everyone who plans to attend the roundtable should read them in advance:

<http://www.indiana.edu/~reeiweb/events/2008/roundtable08.shtml>

Co-sponsors: Indiana University Russian and East European Institute, Inner Asian and Uralic National Resource Center, Center for the Study of Global Change, East Asian Studies Center, Department of Anthropology, Department of Sociology, Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures, Middle Eastern and Islamic Studies, European Union Center of Excellence and Office of the Vice President for International Affairs.