IU Study Abroad: Dominican Republic
May 2014

What is the program?

- Four weeks in the DR, homestays with Dominican families: includes three meals daily
- Two classes (6 credits): S324/S495 and S326/S495, taught by Professors Erik Willis and Luciana Namorato (IU Dept of Spanish and Portuguese)
- Service-learning component at a Project School/Recycling Center
- Excursions guided by IU professors and local staff including:
  - Captain Kidd Shipwreck, Los Haitises, Museo Mirabal
- Workshops at the Centro León, the country’s premier anthropology and modern art museum.

Where: Santiago de los Caballeros, Dominican Republic (DR). The second-largest city in the DR, Santiago is a truly authentic experience of the DR. Known for its safety and cultural richness; it is also home to a major baseball stadium, the Centro León, and many other cultural and historical sites.

When: May 11-June 11, 2014 (application deadline Jan. 27, 2014)

Who is eligible for the program? The program is targeted to upper-division Spanish majors and minors who have taken S280 and received a B (3.0 GPA) or above. The application requires two letters of recommendation and a statement from the student. Only IUB students are eligible.

Cost: $3,700 (tentative) Includes room and board, tuition, fees, Health insurance in the Dominican Republic, and most excursions. Students are responsible for airfare to and back.

How to apply: Application information will be available at overseas.iu.edu

*Home-stays and in-country support (medical and safety) are provided by Council on International Educational Exchange (CIEE). All host families have extensive experience with foreign students.

Pictures: Monument to the Heroes of the Restoration, Sosua beach, Mirabal sisters’ museum.